The match will be played on Wednesday, July 16, at the Harare Sports Club in Harare. Proteas Off To A Confident Start South Africa opened their campaign with a five-wicket win over Zimbabwe, getting off to a solid start despite resting several key players. With senior stars missing, the team is being led by Rassie van der Dussen, who is guiding a youthful squad with plenty to prove. Youngster Deward Brevis starred in the opening game, earning the Player of the Match award for his impactful performance, underlining the depth and promise in South Africa's bench strength. Full-Strength New Zealand Ready for Action Unlike South Africa, New Zealand have fielded a full-strength side, barring the absence of their iconic batter Kane Williamson, who has been rested. The team will be led by Mitchell Santner, bringing experience and balance to the squad. This will be New Zealand's first match of the tri-series, and they will be eager to start on a winning note against an in-form South African team. In their series opener against Proteas, they prevailed on the back of collective performance with both bat and ball, while they eased past Zimbabwe in their second game. The revamped South Africa team outshone Zimbabwe on two occasions in this series - the second of which resulted in the hosts being knocked out. The Proteas started their tri-series campaign with a disappointing defeat as their top-order failed to click but it's the middle-order that fills the punch with Rubin Hermann and Deward Brevis playing crucial knocks. In their series opener against Proteas, they prevailed on the back of collective performance with both bat and ball, while they eased past Zimbabwe in their second game. The revamped South Africa team outshone Zimbabwe on two occasions in this series - the second of which resulted in the hosts being knocked out. The Proteas started their tri-series campaign with a disappointing defeat as their top-order failed to click but it's the middle-order that fills the punch with Rubin Hermann and Deward Brevis playing crucial knocks.
