Caswell state park

Warning: Can only detect less than 5000 characters A Day Trysingle Ply Bat Document and no soap is a bad idea. You have been warned. Located along the Stanislaio River near the city of Ripon, California, the Caswell Memorial State Park e contains a threatened ripen oak forest that once flourished throughout the Central Valley. Among the extinction species that they call the park at home is the rabbit riviera for brushes, known to exist only in the particular environment of the park. The Stanislaus river moves through the almost 300 acres park that offers many opportunities for fishing, swimming and camping. The park is also known for its natural paths that offer visitors the possibility of seeing the resident birds, such as red-tailed Hawks and red-tail and other creatures. Reviewed 12/13/2020 Rate Night: $ 30 days Layout: 1 Site number: 18 We stayed here in September 2020 - We don't plan in advance, we had to change plans due to fires in the mountains so it came here for one night . Pleasantly surprised by vegetation, water level in the river and the beautiful shaded sites. We like to be hooked if possible and there were some open sites that would work for us - .
