Bristol City Centre operates a Clean Air Zone (CAZ) where most vehicles won't be charged, according to the UK Government's pollution limits. For more information on the Bristol CAZ, visit the Bristol City Council Clean Air Zone hub. You can check if your vehicle is compliant using the government's online tool or view the CAZ map to see which areas are chargeable. Over 71% of vehicles entering Bristol already meet the emission standards, and only older, polluting vehicles will be charged. Those exempt from charges include Euro 4, 5, and 6 petrol vehicles (manufactured after 2006), Euro 6 diesel vehicles (made after 2015), electric or hydrogen fuel cell vehicles, modified or retrofitted vehicles, motorbikes, and those registered with the Energy Saving Trust's Clean Vehicle Retrofit Accreditation Scheme. If you need to pay, charges can be viewed online, and payments can be made up to six days before or after entering the zone. Travelling by train is a good alternative, as it removes up to 500 cars from roads and cuts emissions by two-thirds for medium-length journeys. Residents, businesses, and council members must pay the daily charge if their vehicle doesn't meet emission standards, unless exempt. Charges apply 24/7, 365 days a year, and can be paid in advance or after entry. Failure to pay will result in a £120 Penalty Charge Notice plus the CAZ charge, which is reduced to £60 plus the CAZ charge if paid within 14 days. If you've paid the zone charge in advance but didn't travel through the zone on that day, you shouldn't pay again. Only pay if you're sure you'll enter the zone. Check your vehicle and see if it needs a daily zone charge on GOV.UK. To update your registration or confirm eligibility, use the online form or call 0300 029 8888 during specified hours: Monday to Friday (8am-7pm), and Saturday (8am-2pm).
