I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Continue

I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Adblock extension for chrome ultimate

The Chrome Web Store is a casino, of course, but that does not mean that you should not use legitimate extensions to improve your browser experience ¢ â,¬ "if this is on Google Chrome or the resource-friendly alternative, Microsoft ¢ â,¬ Â "¢ s Edge chromium.tempting as it could be to pack your browser full of each useful extension that you can get, that bit of Â ¢ â,¬ Â" resourcesÂ ¢ â,¬ was not alone My lame attempt to a joke: at some point, you will "want to be strategic about your selections, because you probably don't want to slow your browser to a gattonium. I feel like I had some extensions of too many extensions now, and promising that working on this article will convince me to remove a handful from my browser. He said, there are also some extensions that I think everyone should know everyone. They could be obvious for you; They could be completely new. You have to start somewhere, and that's why to share the extensions I always use in the hope that you give you some gem (or a filling suite) to try. If you have suggestions for others prolonged defend to any cost, please leave them in the comments! I am always looking for the next one, great extension, and it would be more than happy to control it and share it with your lifemates of LifeHackerÂ ¢ â,¬ "if it's fantastic, of course. Start here. Remember again on the day when Did you have to install annoying VNC applications on your computer if you wanted to compose your system from afar? You had to understand a way to fists through your home or office router if you wanted to move the mouse to a remote computer and type as if you were sitting in front At the screen. How many Account Dyndns do you think we all realized over the years? Jumping back to day day, there is a single most useful extension for owners of multiple devices than the chrome remote desktop. Install it on your various desktops or laptops , make sure that these systems are connected to your Google account and set them as a host ... which really implies the click on a button or two and set a PIN number. PU So use this site useful for accessing these systems wherever they are, assuming that they are turned on. You can even use an app for Android or iOS to cruel your screen and pull on any program you need to start. This is the extension I use if I were ever heading out of town and I need to dominate my desktop Home for any reason "turn off when a download has finished or make sure to upload my favorite inactive game (and set the monitor to turn off then a minute or so). You may not use the remote desktop chrome every day, but you will be happy there is there when you need it. You don't have to use 1Password as a password management. There are alternatives; this is just what I have blocked In recent years. I love 1 chrome password extension, because it simplifies access to the numerous login and passwords that I have saved in the app over the years. This extension comes like a companion for the 1password desktop app ", which you have to Also install on your PC. Otherwise, you need the standalone 1Password X extension. Assuming that you use GmailÂ ¢ â,¬ "Who does not use Gmail? Â, â,¬" then Google Mail Checker is an extension of your browser. Install it and is a small icon in your main toolbar that tells you how many messages don't read Gmail you have. This to. You can't change a single option, nor to change that counts in any way, so let this inspired you to get to box inbox zero. They are probably 50 different chrome extensions that you can use to customize your YouTube experience. I tried a group of them, and I find myself hate me for various reasons - they stop working, they are bulky, their ui is horrible, their settings are difficult to understand, Scammers, et cetera. What I stuck with the last year and change is improved for YouTube, as meets most of the requests I have for an extension like this. It allows me to skip annoying annoying Ads; Automatically makes the player to the larger theatrical mode every time I look at a video; And it even makes the player a smaller in-picture display, so I can still watch the video when we stop down to read the insipid comments of YouTube; And it automatically defaults to the very high quality reproduction for any video. Its settings menu, even if a bit complicated, makes sense, and you can even use it to adjust the colors and the theme of YouTube, change the default playback speed and check the volume with the mouse wheel. Nice.i talked about this first, so I don't repeat too much. The link to the extension of the text fragment allows you to create your personalized anchor links - hyperlinks that will direct a user of another Chrome user (or Bede Chromium) to an exact text bit on a website. It is incredibly useful, especially if you are a student, researcher or anyone else that may not want to lose a giant flow of text every time you are looking for a special passage. Oh yes. If you are tired of tackling the clutter of the tablet, exactly why I'm not showing you a screenshot of my complete browser right now ... you absolutely need oneetab. This extension is a productivity life preserver. With it, you can download all the Open cards in a single list of cards that you can save within the extension itself or export to your .html file for the case. While I still recommend bookmarking sites, you know you would like to be around, Onetab helps you at least manage your daily nightmare (or weekly) much better and saves precious resources on your system, you too say Â ¢ â,¬ Â " Lifesaver? Â, â,¬ are random times when your browser crashes; It is the nature of the software. Usually you receive a warning to restore the cards you have previously opened. Sometimes, however, this process can go a little wrong, and you reality in reality for restoring anything. This leaves you the unpleasant task to cross your story to find a time when these cards have all been opened and you can make them again one by one again. Or, you can do what I do: Install session Buddy, simply click on one of the real-time backups of the cards and launch all the way it was before your browser. I can't count the number of times session Buddy saved your ass. For this reason, he sits at the top of my extension list of my browser. I never executed the numbers to see how much the great suspension makes your browser less than a CPU and a memory pig. On paper, the solid role extension: fundamentally supports any activity on the cards you are not actively using, restoring them with a click when you are ready to revisit them. I confess, this too has never been enough to make Chrome not turn my desktop computer into a reaction engine every time I used it, but every little bit helps, right? If you are going to make Jeff Bezos rider, the minimum you can do is to ensure that your Amazon purchases are slightly benefiting from some local charities in your area. With the smile always, your browser will always take to smile.Mazon.com instead of Amazon.com, which means that all purchases made will give a slight piece of cash to a selected charity. Do you become instal-millionaires? No, but my purchases in the last year or two have collected almost $ 100 for my favorite local charity. If 1,000 people did buy as much as me and everyone did the same thing, this is one hundred and thousands of extra dollars for absolutely nothing. And if ten thousand people used this extension ... anyway, install the smile always if you buy Amazon. It didn't cost you anything, and more people doing it, FREE money charity get. As easy as that. I don't like being traced around the web, and you will go to great lengths to do my best - knowing that it is probably still useless ... to prevent scripts, biscuits and other bullshit from following me and learning everything I like. Because the Electronic Frontier Foundation describes the Badger Privacy: Â ¢ â,¬ "in a more technical technician Privacy Badger continues to take note of the domains, ~ party revolt incorporating images, scripts and advertising in the pages you visit. Privacy Badger search tracking techniques like identification cookies in â €