This lesson introduces the concept of comparing texts on a similar topic. Students will: analyze two informational texts on the same topic. compare and contrast information in the texts, illustrations, or features. How do strategic readers create meaning from informational and literary text? What is this text really about? What is this text really about? How does interaction with text provoke thinking and response? Compare: To find what is alike. Contrast: To find what is different. Similarities: Things that are alike. Differences: Things that are different. Illustrations: Pictures or drawings. Caption: Words or sentences that give information about a photograph. Table of Contents: List of chapter titles and page numbers at the beginning of a book. Glossary: List of words in a book and their meanings. 60-90 minutes/2-3 class periods Prerequisite Skills haven't been entered into the lesson plan. paired pictures of two animals with easily identifiable similarities and differences (e.g., a spider and a praying mantis, a hippo and an elephant, a house cat and a tiger) Venn diagram (L-1-4-3 Venn diagram.docx) In The Desert by Mari Arnaud and Linda Whiteside. Pacific Learning, 2000. Life in the Desert by Kerri O'Donnell. The Rosen Publishing Group, 2001. These books were chosen because they are informational texts about a similar topic with easily identifiable similarities and differences. Alternative books should be high-interest informational texts about the same topic that provide opportunities for students to compare and contrast. Examples include the following: Firefighters by Katie Daynes. Usborne Books, 2007. A Day in the Life of a Firefighter by Heather Adamson. Capstone Press, 2000. Can You Find Us? by Anita Holmes. Cavendish Square Publishing, 2000. Animal Hide and Seek by Dahlov Ipcar. Islandport Press, 2013. Dogs by Cynthia Fitterer Klinger. Children's World, 2000. About Dogs by Bruce Johnson and Sindy McKay. Treasure Bay, 2009. Teachers may substitute other books to provide a range of reading and level of text complexity. additional pairs of informational texts about the same topic at students' independent reading levels, to be used for small-group activities Note: Video playback may not work on all devices.
