Photo Courtesy: Ask Media Group Summer is in full swing and thereeÁÁÁs nothing like heading to the beach eÁÁÁ or the park eÁÁÁ sitting by the water, contemplating the view, grabbing a good book and just immersing ourselves in it. ThateÁÁÁs why weeÁÁÁre throwing out some ideas for the perfect summer novels. We are adhering to eÁÁÁbeach readseÁÁÁ rules though: most of the titles here are either total page-turners or grant some instant gratification eÁÁÁ both. And all of them will transport you to faraway places or the kind of setting youeÁÁÁd enjoy spending a vacation at, either because of when they were written or where they are set. eÁÁÁThe Talented Mr. RipleyeÁÁÁ by Patricia Highsmith (1955) Photo Courtesy: Goodreads The oldest book on this list is a series of five psychological thrillers that Patricia Highsmith wrote about her infamous Tom Ripley character. Even if heeÁÁÁs a sociopath with more than murderous tendencies, the reader caneÁÁÁt avoid being on RipleyeÁÁÁs side while reading HighsmitheÁÁÁs engaging novels. The whole series is set in Europe with the first book taking its protagonist and the reader to San Remo, Rome, Palermo and Venice. Plus, thereeÁÁÁs a constant longing for a trip to Greece. Photo Courtesy: Goodreads This Australian classic is set in 1900 and features a group of boarders from an all-girls school in Victoria as they take a day trip to the nearby geological formation Hanging Rock. There are plenty of descriptions of proper picnic attire, the beauty of the landscape and the relationships that bond this group of teenagers and their teachers. And while Joan LindsayeÁÁÁs writing style and the setting for this novel may have you drawing some parallels with other classic coming-of-age novels written by and starring women, the ending of Picnic at Hanging RockÁÁÁ could only have been written in the 1960s. eÁÁÁLos mares del SureeÁÁÁ (Southern Seas) by Manuel VÁÁzquez MontalbÁÁn (1979) Photo Goodreads Allow me the hometown reference with this Spanish novel set in Barcelona in 1979. Written by the Galician author Manuel VÁÁzquez MontalbÁÁn, Southern SeasÁÁs the most famous of his novels starring the private detective Pepe Carvalho. HeeÁÁÁs a gourmet whoeÁÁÁs equally obsessed with food, literature and the city of Barcelona. Besides a methodical description of the city in the late 1970s, the book also includes references to a trip to the Southern Seas that never was. eÁÁÁNorwegian WoodeÁÁÁ by Haruki Murakami (1987) Photo Courtesy: Goodreads Written by Japanese author Haruki Murakami, this coming-of-age novel follows the story of Toru Watanabe, a college student who is obsessed with American literature. HeeÁÁÁs trying to figure out his life in Tokyo in the 1960s and ends up in relationships with two women who couldneÁÁÁt be more different: thereeÁÁÁs Naoko, the former girlfriend of his best friend, and Midori, one of his classmates. The story takes the reader from the bustling streets of Tokyo to the peaceful quietness of a rehab center lost in the mountains nearby Kyoto. eÁÁÁGet ShortyeÁÁÁ by Elmore Leonard (1990) Photo Courtesy: Goodreads Small-time Miami loan shark Chili Palmer travels to Las Vegas, hoping to get a debt paid, and ends up in Los Angeles, where he learns about the movie-making business and how to become a producer. Set in Hollywood in 1990, this California classic masterfully blends suspense, thrills, humor and even the slightest hint of a Western. This story is so quintessentially Hollywood that thereeÁÁÁs a 1995 movie adaptation starring John Travolta and a 2017 TV show with Chris OeÁÁÁDowd, but you should definitely start with the Elmore Leonard novel. eÁÁÁDeath at La FeniceeÁÁÁ by Donna Leon (1992) Photo Courtesy: Goodreads American novelist Donna Leon has been calling Venice home for years. Her first book in the mystery series that stars the Venetian police detective Guido Brunetti the investigation of the death of a music director after being poisoned during the intermission of a Verdi opera in La Felice. Leon has been publishing a new Commissario Guido Brunetti a year for decades. So if you love the Venetian scenario, crime stories and the constant descriptions of all the delicious food (and drinks) that Brunetti ingest daily, this could definitely be the series for you. "Call me by your name" by AndrÁÁciman (2007) Photo courtesy: Goodreads It is possible that we will never see the sequel of Luca Guadagnino of his cult Me by his name adaptation of film. And while AndrÁÁciman's follow-up novel, Find Me, can leave Elio and Oliver fans a little overwhelmed, there's nothing like going back to the original material. Located on the backdrop of the Italian Riviera, this history of the age's arrival follows the Elio precocous as he falls in love with Oliver, a graduate student and the guest of Elio's parents for the summer. This iconic summer reads perfectly captures the feeling of yearning for someone and has plentiful, attractive conversations, swimming early in the morning, a furtive relationship and a passionate trip to Rome. "Americana" by Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie (2013) Photo Courtesy: Goodreads The Nigerian author Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie poses this story—which deals with immigration, race and feeling of belonging—in Lagos, London and New Jersey. Her protagonist is Ifemelu, a young Nigerian who moves to the United States to continue her studies. Americana makes a great reading not only as an attractive and entertaining novel, but also as a study on race in America from the perspective of a non-American black person. The novel also packs a complex love story between Ifemelu and Obinze, which moves to London and has tothere as an undocumented immigrant. The historical novel with a British Bennett, which is already being developed in a series limited by HBO, tells the story of two identical twin sisters of a small town in the rural area of Louisiana, where most of the black population is so light-skinned that one of the sisters passes as a white woman during most of her life after fleeing the city. The action spans several decades from the 1950s and intertwines the life of the assimilated sister: who takes a double life in New Orleans and then Los Angeles, with that of the other, who is forced to return home. "Velvet" was the night of Silvia Moreno-García (2021) Photo courtesy: Goodreads lets you close this list with an August release of one of the best authors of 2020. After her Mexican Gothic was chosen as the best horror novel last year by Goodreads users, author Silvia Moreno-García returns with Velvet was the night. The Mexican Canadian author establishes the action in Mexico City of the 1970s and writes about Maite, a secretary obsessed with romantic stories and her beautiful neighbor Leona. When the object of its fixation disappears, Maite starts looking for it, but she is not the only one. More from ask.com ask.com
