Windows 10 may well be just around the corner but until that time comes, Windows 8.1 users will still need apps to be more productive and efficient, or just for having fun.Here's our choice of the best five free apps you can download today for your Windows 8.1 PC or laptop.1. FacebookSure you can visit the social networking site using a browser, but the Facebook app gives you the mobile experience on a desktop. It features the toolbar on the left to access things such as your profile, events, groups you are in and photos as well as much more besides.The toolbar on the right lists group chats, top friends and everyone else you know on the social network.On the start screen, the app shows updates on live tiles so you can keep up with friends without having the app open.Download Facebook (opens in new tab) here2. TV CatchupThis app enables you to watch all your TV on your laptop as well as catchup TV services. In addition to the main five UK terrestrial channels, there are also a handful of digital TV channels such as Al Jazeera, CCTV and Quest.The app incorporates many Windows 8.1 features such as snapped view. Personal channel lists can be made by pinning channel tiles to the Start page from the app.There is an interactive TV guide to see what's on now and next.Download TV Catchup (opens in new tab) here3. NetflixThe Netflix app is one of the best apps to have running on your Windows 8.1 device. As long as you have a subscription and a working connection, this app enables you to instantly watch thousands of TV episodes and movies.Each title can be seen as a DVD-shaped icon and you can swipe to the left and right to see what's on offer. A search bar helps you to drill down to find the programme you want to watch.The app also allows users to rate TV shows and films so that Netflix gets to understand your likes and dislikes, helping it to suggest other things you may wish to watch.Download Netflix (opens in new tab) here4. Microsoft Solitaire CollectionWindows would not be complete without Solitaire (or Patience as we call it in the UK). This official version of the app brings the game bang up to date with better graphics as well as other variations to keep you occupied. These include Klondike, Spider, FreeCell, Pyramid and TriPeaks.Achievements can be added to your Xbox Gamertag so you can show off to all your gamer buddies on the Xbox 360 and Xbox One.Download Microsoft Solitaire Collection (opens in new tab) here5. KindleThis Windows 8.1 app brings all your books in your Amazon Kindle collection to your PC or laptop. As well as that, the app offers access to over one million books in the Kindle Store that you can buy from within the app.It can be set up to sync with other devices you have, so that the book you were reading on one device can be picked up where you left off on another.Kindle books can also be pinned to the start screen for instant access.Download Kindle (opens in new tab) hereRead more: Why Windows 10 will make you dump your Mac Apps that can make you money? It sounds too good to be true, but moneymaking apps do actually exist. While these apps won't make you rich, they can earn you some respectable pocket money or pay for your monthly mobile phone bill. From market research apps to mobile advertising apps to sharing economy apps, you can download one or many of these moneymaking apps on your smartphone for you to engage with as you commute or have some downtime. After all, every dollar counts. Something to keep in mind is that among research market moneymaking apps, be wary of potential scams that ask for a fee to register (stay away) or over-exaggerate the potential earnings. Look at the app ratings and read the user reviews. You can also check with the Better Business Bureau to see the business's rating and any registered complaints. Here are 10 ways to make money using apps. Related: How to Make Money Consistently With Your App Without Annoying Ads The Money App (available for iOS and Android) is a market research app that earns you rewards for completing tasks, which include offering opinions, playing games, checking store displays, mystery shopping, testing services and participating in free trials. You open an account on the Money App and start completing tasks to accumulate rewards, which you can, in turn, redeem for cash using a PayPal account. The beauty of this app is that you can get paid within two to three working days of redeeming rewards -- which is unusual in the world of market research apps that typically pay once a month or don't offer cash rewards at all. What's more, the app scores highly (4.8 out of 5) on both Google Play and iTunes. One reviewer wrote: "I got my first 10 dollars within 5 days. That's pretty good for not getting up off the couch." Couch potatoes, rejoice: you now have options. Related: 13 Easy Investing Apps and Websites for Millennials PollThe iPoll app (available for iOS and Android) is a customized market research app that allows you to earn money through taking market surveys, writing down diaries (of dairy consumption over three days, for example) and completing missions around retail (e.g. going to the grocery store). You register and are asked some basic information, such as your preferences and consumer habits, to determine your fit for missions, and then you receive alerts when there are new missions available based on your preferences and location. The beauty of this particular market research app is that it's customized, so you get alerts for tasks and missions that are suited to your interests and what you may actually enjoy. Users like iPoll, too: It's rated 4 out of 5 stars on iTunes -- and less glowing 3.1 out of 5 on Google Play. One reviewer wrote, "I like that there's usually not any technical difficulties or 'glitches'...and that the selection of topics are interesting and fun. ... Most of the time, surveys [are] easy to start and complete; also they're not exceedingly long!" For each survey, mission or diary completed, you earn rewards that can be redeemed for gift cards, or you can cash out using PayPal. You need only have accrued $10 to do so. Another perk: You're automatically entered into a quarterly sweepstakes to win $10,000 in cash. Related: 8 Ways to Make Money While You Sleep Foap is a moneymaking app (available for iOS and Android) that allows both professional and amateur photographers to make extra money selling photos taken on a smartphone. It's pretty genius. Basically, it's a crowdsourcing platform for brands and advertising and marketing agencies to find and purchase images from Foap's registry of more than 2.5 million photographers around the world. You register an account, upload your high-quality photos with clear tags, and the photos get rated by the registered community -- the higher the rating, the higher the photo's visibility. For each sale, you earn $5, and you can earn up to $100 per sale. There are also "missions," where brands and agencies will produce price codes and some of the offers to buy your books disappear when you follow up. However, as one reviewer said, "Getting paid even $15 for books I was going to give away seems worth it to me! Clear clutter AND get some cash." Related: 9 Mobile Apps That Are Taking Social Entrepreneurship to the Next Level As a market research app, Toluna (available for iOS and Android) stands out in the crowd, because users can get paid in cash using PayPal, and also the app offers rewards for more than just taking surveys -- you can also create your own surveys (e.g. based on current events, shampoo habits or opinion on latest tech gadget) that can earn you bonus points. Registration is simple, and to get a feel for how you can make the most out of Toluna, you can watch a webinar on ways you can milk the app. (Look for the next webinar in your notifications, on the upper-right-hand side of screen, which tells you about new surveys available.) The app is rated 3.8 out of 5 stars on iTunes and 3.3 out of 5 stars on Google Play. "Be patient and persevere! I've been here just a bit over a year and it's been wonderful. When you get enough points, go to the rewards center and choose what you like! If you go for cash, I like the PayPal advantage over waiting on a paper check," wrote one user on the Toluna community blog. Related: A Step-by-Step Guide To Building Your First Mobile App UserfeelThe Userfeel app (available for iOS and Android) allows you to participate in usability tests, meaning you get paid to visit and explore new websites, perform various simple tasks on the site and offer recorded feedback and critiques. (There is a helpful video on the website that provides a clear illustration of what is expected.) Each test lasts 10 to 20 minutes, and you're paid $10 a test in cash via PayPal or Payoneer. One of the standout features of this app is that you take an initial "qualifications test," which records your voice and your screen as you walk through given tasks. This is a version of what you'll be doing, but it's unpaid and meant to not only test whether the app is working, but also to give you a rating by the UserFeel team. The better your rating, the more tests that will be assigned to you. The app scored 3.2 out of 5 on Google Play. One UserFeel reviewer wrote, "I had few issues uploading my video, but their support team was able to help me recover it, and I got paid for my test. Very easy way to make some extra money. I can't wait to [do] another test." Some of the reviews mentioned the app crashing as the user was trying to upload the test video, however the Userfeel support team was responsive in trying to resolve these issues. Related: To Avoid Distractions and Stay off Facebook, This Entrepreneur Uses a Special App That Limits His Internet Use MuselyMusely (available for iOS and Android) is an online community and marketplace app for eco-friendly beauty and home products, as well as a social platform for women to share and receive healthy lifestyle advice and tips ranging from parenting to skincare to fitness. On Musely, you can shop for organic, up-and-coming brands and eco-friendly products, such as toxin-free nail polish or all-natural lipstick. The way to earn money on the app is to become a "Muse" (basically an influencer) on the site and create your own store to earn a 20 percent commission on the sales of the products you recommend. Musely automatically pays out the 1st and the 15th of each month. The app is rated highly on both iTunes (4.7 out of 5) and Google Play (4.2 stars out of 5). One reviewer wrote, "Loads of DIY tips! It's a great app for health, beauty, crafts and much much more! I'm obsessed!" Related: Want 'Right' Swipes on Your App? Here's How to Make Your App a Star.
